Hey!

This comic is written in traditional manga format. That's why you read it from the top right to the bottom left.

*Light again fell onto a forgotten tale of a three-eyed half god.
A tale engraved into the walls of an ancient tomb...*

*In exchange for riches the three-eyed granted the people games.
But the story somehow was erased from history.*

*Covered by the white Sahara sand dunes
the tale faded into oblivion...*

...But sand flows naturally by the motions of the winds & time.

*And what was lost
found its way back to the surface.*

*For in 1969 a tomb
was found deep within the Sahara desert of Morocco.*

And its seal was soon lifted by the curiosity of men...

A forgotten tale of creation, worship & trade found its way back to the surface.

Leaving us in darkness with but many questions...

Who chose this path of deception & lies?

And why was history erased?

None could have foreseen who would wander into the bazaar that day. None but one...

A mysterious deal granted the three-eyed wanderer from the desert a hat & an envelope... The cocktail for an escape in style!

On a warm summer's evening.
On a train bound for nowhere...

I don't know what you're talking about, Mr. Gambler. But it sounds like you're challenging me to a game of some sorts...

What if I win?

I teach you how I read those faces. But what if I win?

Each of us DRAWs a CARD from this deck and calls the card higher or lower. You win IF you call it right. Easy!

GOOD!

If you win... I tell you a secret...

Since we're both tired we keep it simple!

I think I'm also lower

If we call the same the highest or lowest, dependent of what we called wins.

BEST OF THREE!

I think I'm lower.

MY PEOPLE BELIEVE THAT THE SPIRITS OF THE DESERT, THE GREAT ALSAHRA, BESTOW SUPERNATURAL POWERS.

BUT THAT THEY CAN ALSO BE AN OMEN OF GREAT MISFORTUNE...

BY A DJIN.

Pursued after all... by a spirit... from the desert?...
